SUMMARY

As a self-taught digital designer and web developer , my career objective is to use my creativity, technical proficiency and problem-solving skills to create impactful designs. With years of experience creating brand designs and responsive web sites, I have continued to grow while learning. I aim to work in an environment that fosters creativity, encourages innovation and provides opportunities for career growth. I am committed to staying up-to-date with design trends, as well as software changes within the industry while I better my skills as a web developer and digital designer.
